

Calculus

Reflection: Feedback

Donovan Lewis B1.1

22/11/2013

Final Feedback

Dear Donovan,

Your attendance of instructions and mentor meetings was good. You always submitted good quality homework in time. In your communication with teachers and tutor your behavior you were spontaneous and open. Finally your participation in meetings was active and motivated.

Quality of deliverables

Your problem solving process, as observed from the submitted work and tests, was structured and I noticed you made some effort to improve. You worked hard on it. Based on the scores of your homework exercises and tests, you have performed sufficiently in this learning activity.

Depth and development

Considering all deliverables and results, your level of understanding, skills and overall development in Calculus is adequate. In your reflection, you had the possibility to place what you have learned in a broader context. You write you are not yet convinced calculus will be of importance in your study, but you're confident you will experience this later on.

Kind regards,

Carla Rusch-Groot